MYSTERY OF RED
HORROR SOLVED

rooms in the Old Synagogue rooming-house on Third South street, in which the woman slashed Muncy in the face with a razor, claiming she did it in the belief that her own life was in danger.
She claimed that her husband was too intimate with other women and that when she upbraided him he made a movement as though about to draw a razor on her and she drew first. The woman evidently aimed directly for Muncy's throat, but he dodged and sustained only a slight cut on the side of the face.

Muncy claimed that his wife was insane and that she was jealous without cause. Both were arrested, but as neither would testify against the other no action was brought against them.
They continued to live together, but not without frequent dissensions, and it was Muncy's constant threats to have her sent to the insane asylum that finally led Mrs. Muncy to inform the
